Cosy girls' flatshare meets London's urban jungle

18-year-old Quinn is closer to her dream of becoming a journalist than ever before. Not only has she managed to get a training place at the famous Trinity Media House: she's also bagged a room in the best flatshare in London. But her new life is about to get a lot more challenging. She gets a job as an editor on a gossip magazine, and right from the start her boss makes her life difficult. When she inadvertently publishes something untrue about the popstar Milo Bricks, his fans are up in arms, and Quinn has to pay for her mistake.

But when she's forced to get to know the real Milo better for further interviews, she suddenly finds herself in danger of falling for him...

When the past catches up with you...

19-year-old Pippa's diary is packed, and even the girls she shares a flat with in Willow Square usually can't see her without an appointment. She has her life firmly in hand, and is working hard on her five-year plan. But suddenly she finds herself forced to fight for what she'd thought was a secure job as an intern at the fashion label Pink Flow. Her competition is none other than Ben – the man who broke her heart years ago and then completely disappeared from her life. Pippa is determined not to get close to him again. But she's not prepared for the chemistry that sizzles between them every time they meet...

Book 2 of the duology from Spiegel
Bestseller author

If Malin was a sweet she'd be an After Eight, whereas her twin sister Lila would be a sweet marshmallow. The two couldn't be more different. When a fateful kiss causes Lila's friends to turn their backs on her, she ends up at Camp Rainbow with Malin. It's a place she's hated for a long time. She'd never have thought this would be the place where she would feel understood and accepted for the first time. But then the twins learn that the camp is to be closed down. They resolve to work together to save it – and in Malin's last year at Camp Rainbow, they finally become close again.

enjoying growing popularity

The long-awaited continuation of the Spiegel Bestseller series

Twelve months have passed since their visit to Jane Austen, and now Lilly and Damien are facing a new challenge. An old acquaintance reveals himself as a time traveller and compels the two of them to travel back with him to the wild Highlands in the year 1745. There, Collin MacLeod is seeking the legendary Pearl of Tortuga, which is said to have special healing powers. At Dunvegan Castle, Lilly and Collin pose as a newly married couple. Damien, however, finds it increasingly difficult not to give himself away in his role as a servant. Meanwhile there is still no sign of the pearl, a spy is planning an English raid, and Lilly and Collin are growing ever closer...

Christmas magic at a small B&B in Sweden

Everything in Lin's life is going wrong: her relationship has broken down, her educational practice is closing, and her closest friend Jona has moved away after A-Levels. So Jona's suggestion that she come and visit him at his mum's little bed-and-breakfast in Sweden comes at exactly the right time. Without further ado Lin sets off, dreaming of a white Christmas, shimmering northern lights and cosy film nights. But unfortunately the reality is very different, because Jona has worries he can't tell Lin about, and much of his time is taken up by the guests. And he'd been hoping to finally admit to Lin after all these years that he's in love with her...
