The little fir tree wants nothing more than to be a real Christmas tree. But he's a little rough around the edges, so all the other Christmas trees get picked before him. Eventually he is left all alone in the clearing, feeling very lonely. Until the woodland animals come along. They've been looking for none other than the little fir tree for the forest's big Christmas party! Now they just need the help of a young reader: the baubles need to be hung, the star placed on top of the tree and the candles lit. Can you help?

An interactive Christmas board book for very young children, with funny, age-appropriate actions

A lovely message: be who you are, because you are perfect!

Who's Been Nibbling My Biscuit?

by Lucy Astner and Nadine Y. Resch

250 x 250 mm
32 pages
October 2024

Hedgehog can't believe his eyes: lying right outside his front door is the most delicious-looking biscuit in the world. But when he pops back into his burrow for a moment, someone actually comes along and takes a bite out of his tasty treat. The audacity! The tooth marks are clearly visible, so Hedgehog decides to try and catch the biscuit thief. But every time one of the woodland animals tries to prove their innocence by biting into the biscuit and showing what their tooth marks look like, the snack gets smaller and smaller!

A funny story about not wanting to share – and about the happiness sharing can bring

An amusing story that invites children to guess who the culprit is – and at the end they get to reveal the identity of the biscuit thief themselves!

An important theme for preschoolers: sharing

Just a Spark, a Little Light – A Story About Love and Courage

by Milla Shan and Anita Schmidt

240 x 300 mm
32 pages
November 2024

„A spark, just a little light...“, the young mouse takes these words, spoken to him by his grandfather, out into the world along with a little lantern. The kind-hearted mouse shares his scarf with anyone who is cold, and forges many friendships. His grandfather's wisdom guides him through many adventures and helps him find his happiness – first an ardent love, and later a big family. Until finally he in turn is able to pass on the message to the little grandchild in his arms: “Just a spark, a little light...”

A poetic story about mice in which a little light shines on every page, celebrating the power of love and hope. A book for times like these.

A rhyming story about love, courage and optimism

The light-filled illustrations make the book's special message tangible even for young children

The Zoo's Big Trip Around the World! (Vol.6)

by Sophie Schoenwald and Günther Jakobs

210 x 275 mm
32 pages
August 2024

"The zoo will be closed today!" says the zookeeper happily. "We're going on holiday!" What a great idea, think the zoo animals. They all have very clear ideas about where they want to go: Gisela Giraffe is keen to visit Paris, Piet Penguin fancies a holiday in the sun, and the camels long to see real snow. The question is, how to give everybody what they want? After all, you can't travel around the world in a day. Or can you? As always, Hugo Peppermint Hedgehog has a bright idea...

Carnival in the Henhouse

by Kerstin Hau and Christine Thau

240 x 300 mm
 32 pages
 January 2025

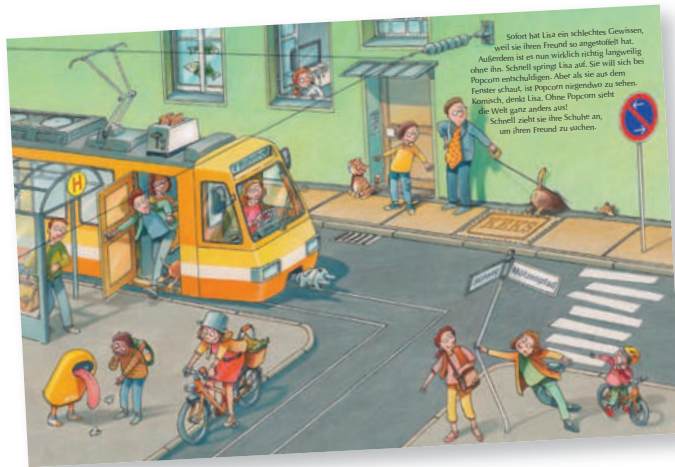

Fiete the fox is hungry. So when he finds out about the hens' fancy dress ball, he quickly comes up with a cunning plan: disguised as a hen in a fox costume, he sneaks into the party. But no sooner has he set foot on the dance floor than hens Heike and Gertrud are getting him to do the limbo, and the chicks drag him off to play in the hay bales with them. Fiete takes a confetti shower, has a friendly drink with Cordula, eats pancakes, and has tons of fun. As he goes dancing home, he realises he's forgotten something: to eat the hens! But never mind – next week the rabbits are having their fancy dress ball...

A fabulous (read-aloud) festival of fun – bright-eyed, bushy-tailed and full of colour!

Where's Popcorn? A Doggy Seek-and-Find Adventure (Vol.6)

by Ralf Butschkow

210 x 275 mm

32 pages

November 2024

Lisa's dog Popcorn wants to go out for a walk, but Lisa doesn't feel like taking him, even though it's a lovely day. Fine, thinks Popcorn – I'll go by myself! And he sets off on an exciting journey of discovery: he stops in at the dog walking field, wanders around the supermarket, visits the shark in the big aquarium at the zoo, gets pampered at the groomer's and relaxes in the bookshop... And Lisa? Well, she soon gets bored without Popcorn. But where is her four-legged friend? And why does everything seem so weird? Something's not right here!

The 'SOMETHING'S NOT RIGHT HERE!' series has sold over 330,000 books

Promotes language acquisition: the seek-and-find concept is fun and sparks conversation

Allows children to show off all the things they already know!

The Trumpanzee

by Thea Dormeyer and Nadine Reitz

250 x 250 mm
32 pages
September 2024

When the Trumpanzee appears in the jungle one day and suggests choosing a leader, the animals think it's not a bad idea. They all agree that the leader should be the strongest, quickest and largest among them. How strange that it's the Trumpanzee who turns out to be the strongest, quickest and largest – not the bear, the tiger or the elephant, as the clever lemur had expected. And so begins the rule of the orange colossus with the white teeth. But the jungle animals don't like being ruled by the Trumpanzee, and after a while the lemur starts to have his suspicions. What if the Trumpanzee lied? What if he's actually a conman?

How a democracy is dismantled – told as a fable for children

Children and adults alike will have fun with this story!

We Are the Animals of the Forest

by Sophie Schoenwald and Alexandra Helm

240 x 300 mm
64 pages
September 2024

A chameleon that looks like a mini dinosaur, a beetle that can make its bottom light up, and a dragonfly that's an expert in long-distance journeys – the forests of our earth are home to countless fascinating creatures. On this colourful voyage around the world through deciduous forests and rainforests, animals themselves get to have their say. They tell the reader in a humorous way about their special abilities, what makes them unique, and the things they like best.

Book 2 in the extraordinary animal encyclopaedia series about similarities and differences

Animal facts communicated in an amusing way – readers can look up specific information or simply flick through and be amazed!

Also available:

We Are the Animals of the World

Adventure? Company? No, they're not Grimlin's thing at all. The grouchy little goblin likes his peace and quiet. This all changes, however, when a bird lands in the tree and sings a beautiful song. From that day on, Tirili comes every morning, and Grimlin is surprised to find he misses the bird from the moment he flies away. The pair become best friends, and are inseparable – until one day Tirili doesn't show up. Grimlin summons up all his courage and sets out in search of his friend. His quest takes him to the deep, dark Conegobbler Wood. But there's no adventure too big for Grimlin, if it means saving his little friend!

When it comes to helping a friend, no adventure is too daunting

An imaginative story that will make the whole family smile

The Little Grimlin and the Big Helping of Courage – A Story of Friendship

by Barbara Rose and Laura Bednarski

170 x 235 mm
128 pages
September 2024

Tinka is terribly bored. So the little princess decides to sneak into the castle's forbidden cellar. There, she discovers something astonishing: an old dragon dozing atop a huge pile of books! His name is Patu, and he's a guardian of stories. But unfortunately he keeps falling asleep, so lately lots of books have gone missing. This gives Tinka an idea: Patu can tell her stories to keep himself awake, and together they can find out who's behind the disappearances. The dragon thinks this is a great plan, and tells tales of fearless pirate children searching for treasure, of a courageous rabbit, and of a mermaid and her heart's desire. The stories are so exciting, Tinka almost forgets about the book thief...

A treasure trove of stories about princes and princesses, dragons, merpeople and other brave heroes and heroines

An amusing frame story about a sleepy dragon who has to keep being woken up

The Little Old Steam Engine – Around the World From Platform Three

by Katrin Pokahr and Fabian Jeremies

170 x 235 mm
128 pages
August 2024

The little old steam engine has long dreamed of one day becoming a museum piece. But the museum doesn't want just an engine on its own – it needs a whole train. So Wilma the steam engine sets out to find her old friends: Big Ellie the dining car, Kurtchen the passenger car, and of course TenderTom the coal car. An adventurous journey begins, taking the little old steam engine across the ocean and a high mountain range, through the desert and into the endless ice. In the end she not only finds her old friends and makes new ones, but also sees her greatest dream come true!

An imaginative story that takes children on an adventure across the world

With wonderful characters: a knitting ferryboat, a retired sleeper car and a nasty desert express train

For train fans big and small

A wizard friend of Petronella's asks if one of his students can stay with her for a few days. Petronella says yes, even though she's got her hands full with the outbreak of glow-nose-itis that's just hit Hazel Wood. Just as she had feared, the wizard's apprentice – who calls himself 'The Great Balderdash' – causes all kinds of chaos. So when Lea begs Petronella to help an injured owl at an animal shelter, her plea comes at a most inopportune time. Petronella tells the children they'll have to wait. But Lea doesn't want to. And when Balderdash offers his help, the children set out with the apprentice on their own...

September 2024

Eleven-year-old Felina Fingerhut wants nothing more than to be a witch! If she was a witch she would be able to fly, keep a black cat, and cast the coolest spells you can imagine. So it's no wonder Felina decides not to return the Black Hole (which the postman delivers to her in error) to its rightful owner – a witch called Cloudy Thunderweather. Instead, disgusting broccoli, dirty socks and Felina's holiday job all disappear into the dark void. The Black Hole proves extremely useful – until Felina's parents fall into it. In her quest to find them, she not only journeys to magical places but forges new friendships and even finds her very own magic.

Empathetic, creative and wittily narrated

Book 2 will be published in autumn 2025

Siren Jade's life is dominated by secrets and intense pressure. In her desperation, she breaks one of the most important rules of the supernatural world and gains a place at the prestigious Ashriver Academy. She wants to make a fresh start there, to get her powers under control, and – most importantly – to blend in. But when she meets Asher, the heir to the House of the Magicians and thus a member of the Academy's prestigious elite, sparks fly between them. It's not just their different backgrounds that stand in their way, however. Because when Jade's lies threaten to come to light, it's Asher who is given the job of checking up on her. And the consequences could see Jade sent straight to prison.
